Biography

Pat Egan began his career on the fields in Rocky Hill. He led his little league team to district and section championships before losing in the 1997 state final. He went on to a record setting all state baseball and basketball career at Rocky Hill High school. Pat was the 2002 State Basketball player of the year, his team winning the state title that year. He then went to Quinnipiac University where he was 2004 NEC pitcher of the year and all New England. At 6'8" he is an imposing figure leading the NEC in wins two years in a row, and finishing third all-time in wins at Quinnipiac. Drafted two years in a row by the Baltimore Orioles, he signed and just completed his first season with Bluefield in the Appalachian League.

Pat will be offering 30 min & 60 min. private or group instruction as well as speaking engagements. Information will be available at the clinic or by calling 543-9501.
